

-----MEDIA RELEASE - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE-----

Yesterday Holy Ghost's management informed Future Classic that the band's Australian tour had to be cancelled following the untimely death of their friend and bandmate Jerry Fuchs.

This is tragic for Holy Ghost! and of course disappointing for all of their Australian fans. The band sent us the following statement regarding the tour cancellation:

"Last week our dear friend and musical partner Jerry Fuchs (drummer of !!!, the Juan Maclean, Turing Machine, Maserati, Holy Ghost!) passed away in a tragic accident here in NYC. Due to these events, we have cancelled our Australian tour to be here in NYC with friends and family during these hard times. We regret this immensely and are particularly sorry to have made this decision at the last possible minute. As you can imagine, this past week has been a long, awful blur and rather suddenly today we realized we are just not ready to travel so far from home for what seems like an impossibly long period of time. We love Australia and are grateful to have had the opportunity to visit earlier this year. Hopefully we'll be back again soon and we'll get a chance to make this up to you.

We sincerely appreciate your understanding.

Regards,

Alex and Nick
Holy Ghost!"

Any tickets purchased for the Sydney Future Classic Label Night may be refunded from the outlet they were purchased from. For information regarding the shows in the other Australian cities on this tour, we suggest getting in touch with the local promoters.
